1.7 MILLION PEOPLE DON'T HAVE EQUAL RIGHTS

Over 1.7 million people - undocumented people, workers, students and refugees - in Canada don't have labour rights, can't get most social services including universal healthcare, and are separated from their families. They face exclusion and exploitation, and some live in fear of detention and deportation. All this, simply because they don't have full immigration status.

THEY ARE OUR NEIGHBOURS AND FRIENDS

They work in farms and feed us, they take care of children, sick and elderly, they are our classmates and co-workers and they build communities. When so many people are denied equal rights, all of us suffer.

BUT CHANGE IS POSSIBLE!

Prime Minister Trudeau has asked the Immigration Minister to regularize (ensure permanent resident status) for undocumented people. Parliament also voted unanimously to ask the Immigration Minister to come up with a plan to give full immigration status to low-waged migrants. Now, the government has a choice: they can come up with a plan to ensure equality for all, or they make minor tweaks which will continue exploitation for most.

THIS IS WHERE YOU COME IN

We know you believe in equality for all. Tell the federal government to ensure fairness and permanent resident status for all. No one should be left behind!
